Proposed Final New gTLD Applicant Guidebook: Request for extension to public comment period

9 December 2010

The ccNSO welcomes the opportunity to comment on the draft Final New gTLD Applicant Guidebook.

ccNSO members have discussed elements of the guidebook at their meeting in Cartagena, Columbia and participated in cross-constituency discussions and public sessions which facilitated broader community communication on the issue.

Given the recentness of these deliberations, and the significance of this potentially being the final consultation on the framework for the new gTLDs process, the ccNSO believes it would be appropriate to extend the public comment period beyond the current deadline of 10 December 2010.

An appropriate extension, taking into account the upcoming festive season, will allow the ccNSO to finalise a comprehensive, considered response.
