Message from the Chair

Approved as a new Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers (ICANN) Constituency at ICANN's Board Meeting in Singapore on 24 June 2011, the Not-for-profit Operational Concerns Constituency (NPOC) was 18 months old when calendar 2012 came to an end.

This is the first annual report ever and covers calendar year 2012.

I first take this opportunity to recognize the outstanding work done by Debbie Hughes from the American Red Cross and Amber Sterling from the Association of American Medical Colleges in bringing about the creation of NPOC, the very first new Constituency of ICANN since its inception in 1998. It was a work of giants, a battle for inclusion and respect, and endless volunteering days and weeks. We warmly thank Debbie and Amber for this outstanding achievement.

NPOC was managed by an interim Executive Committee until the very first elections were held in 1Q 2012. I wish to thank NPOC Colleagues for electing me as Chair and also wish to thank my colleagues Lori Schulman, Klaus Stoll and Eduardo Monge for their early and endless support and volunteering, as well as sharing their expertise at key moments, and despite holding down full time jobs. Special mentions go to Amber Sterling for continuing Executive Committee duties, this time as an elected Officer, despite her double duty of holding a full time day job and going to Law School at night. Finally, thanks to Marie-laure Lemineur, Cintra Sooknanan, Poncelet Ileleji and Olévié Kouami for coming onboard in 2012. The Latin America, Caribbean and Africa regions are now starting to be represented in the running of NPOC Affairs.

Special thoughts go to Lori Schulman from ASCD and Judy Branzelle from Goodwill Industries International who could not assume their duties fully as expected for reasons beyond their control. This crippled NPOC's capacity to fully participate in the work of the Non-Commercial Stakeholders Group (NCSG)-Policy Committee. The 2013 elections and an increasing NPOC membership will hopefully see more Domain Name System (DNS) policy and policy impact interests, and participation emerge within NPOC.

NPOC was present at ICANN 43/44/45 meetings in San José, Prague and Toronto, respectively, as well as at Internet Governance Forum (IGF) 2012 meeting in Baku and organized a number of well-attended quality events, summarized in the Program Committee Chair Report below. Thanks to ICANN Travel Support, PIR.org and the Global Knowledge Partnership Foundation, additional NPOC Executive Committee members could participate.

Integrating NPOC with the NCSG continues to be a challenge despite minor legacy and teething issues from the time before the creation of NPOC. I can say with some degree of assurance and optimism that the NCSG-Executive Committee (NCSG-EC) meeting in Toronto was an inflexion point and intra-stakeholders' group issues are now starting to be addressed in both substantive and relational terms. NPOC continues to work with the Non-Commercial Users Constituency (NCUC), in the interest of building the NCSG and ICANN with the understanding of mutual respect and cooperation in accordance with Standards of Member Behavior (see <https://community.icann.org/display/gnsononcomstake/NCSG+Charter>). We look forward to strengthening ties and trust, notably starting at the Los Angeles inter-sessional meeting of the Non-Contracted Parties House of the Generic Names Supporting Organization (GNSO) in January 2013.

NPOC membership has expanded and diversified in 2012. The Membership Committee Chair Report below gives the highlights.

We look forward to continuing our integration and contribution to the Non-Commercial Stakeholders' Group and to ramping-up the voice of Not-for-profits and Non-Governmental Organizations at ICANN.

Yours Truly,

Alain Berranger

Chair, NPOC

The quality of the presentations provided in-depth and varied perspectives from the panelists who represented the private, academic and the not-for-profit sectors, on the role, relevance, benefits and extent of the social sector and non-profits in Internet Governance. There was also a significant amount of interaction with the audience.

Membership Report

The NPOC membership has increased in 2012 to 37 approved members with 14 potential new members awaiting approval (as of January 2013). More recent new applicants were approved at the 21 December 2012 NCSG-EC meeting. These 14 “older” applicants are legacy potential members who fell between two chairs as NPOC became a “real” Constituency and the leadership changed. The current NCSG-EC is working hard at streamlining the membership application process and a request to ICANN to assume the membership database and application process was made after Toronto. These legacy applicants will have to re-apply. The ongoing NPOC outreach efforts resulted in a continued interest in NPOC membership, and with the increased outreach efforts in 2013, a further large increase of the NPOC membership can be expected for 2013. The list of current NPOC approved members are as follows (in alphabetical order):

The biggest problem in the NPOC membership development was the complicated application process and the slow processing of membership application by the NCSG-EC. This problem is now solved. This said there are some improvements that can be reported in the approval process and it is hoped that this tendency will continue. It has become clear that NPOC needs administrative support with the processing of membership applications and presentations in this regard have been made to ICANN. When the current situation is improved, there should be no reason why NPOC could not double its membership in 2013.

Communications Report

The Communications Committee's work during 2012 was aimed at maintaining the efficient exchange of information between the NPOC, its members, the NCSG and the ICANN community.

The road ahead: NPOC activities in 2013

Launching of NPOC's outreach plan

Towards the second half of 2012, NPOC worked on the preparation of its outreach plan. As a result of this work in early in 2013, NPOC will present its outreach plan with the objective is for non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and not-for-profits (NFPs) to increase their understanding of ICANN's mission to supervise the core technical functions of the Internet—names, numbers and protocols, as well as of related Internet governance issues. NGOs/NFPs recognize that Internet governance implies that a wide range of sectors, globally and locally engage in defining the rules and norms that shape the Internet and that these issues have an impact on their daily operations, notably for programming, learning, training, communications and fundraising.

This strategy will be implemented through partnering and knowledge sharing with other organizations that hold the same vision and have common interests: Webinars, Workshops, Panels, Publications, and Membership Recruitment Events.

The 2013 NPOC Outreach Plan is available to partners and sponsors on demand.
