

Ting-Jen Hwang

Shangri-La Apartment #03-10

1 Anderson Road

Singapore 259983

17th/ January/ 2010

Dear ICANN,

As an avid user of the Internet for writing blogs, maintaining several websites and hopefully several more sites devoted to Aesthetics – the Philosophy of Beauty – I can unreservedly state that the current shortage of domain names created by the monetary interests in commercial exploitation of the Internet is completely unsatisfactory. None of the Internet sites charges any fees and I have no revenue coming from any of the contributions that I make to the Internet information space. My compensation is the intellectual gratification of learning and sharing knowledge with like-minded individuals all over the world.

I think that it is time to allow for a more universal access to domains and the creation of multiple top-level domains is the best way to achieve this. I wholeheartedly advocate the EOI process as at least this will create the chance for exponential growth in domains that will allow for the continued growth and access to the Internet as the global information medium.

Please adopt this process so that individual users such as myself that are not commercial interests will no longer be held hostage by the dot com monopoly that strangles the growth of non-commercial sites. Please do this without delay.

Sincerely,

Ting-Jen Hwang 黃序祿

Ting-Jen Hwang