Dear Mr. Cerf,

March 12, 2007

This letter is to please ask you respectfully NOT to reconsider the application from ICM Registry, Inc.(ICM) asking to create a new .XXX sponsored top level domain (sTLD). The creation of an exclusive .xxx domain for Internet pornography would open up the way for unlimited illegal and extremely offensive material to be displayed on the Internet for universal planet-wide use.

Your corporation is highly regarded, and with such influence and power you hold a tremendous balance in your hands. Will you continue to stand for the upright morals upon which our great country was founded? Or will you let the floodgates be opened to unlimited growth for pornography, which statistically has become not only a prevalent addiction world-wide, but also has predicated a significant increase in sex-related crimes?

I very much appreciate your careful consideration upon this absolutely crucial matter. It is great companies like yours that can stand up for what is right, lawful, and moral.

Sincerely,

Karen Clary
